

PRIVATE EDUCATION LOAN APPLICANT SELF-CERTIFICATION FORM INFORMATION

Beginning February 14, 2010, schools are required to provide the 3 U L Y D W H ( G X F D W L R Q- / R D Q & H U W L I O F D A M L R Q information needed to complete the form, to either an enrolled or admitted applicant (or to the parent applicant of an enrolled or admitted student) upon the applicant's request. The College posts a copy of the 3 U L Y D W H ( G X F D W L R Q & H U W L I O F D A M L R Q on its website for applicants to download. See pages 3 and 4 of this document for the form.

Alternatively, the applicant may obtain a copy of the 3 U L Y D W H ( G X F D W L R Q & H U W L I O F D A M L R Q from the private educational loan lender and submit it to the College for completion or confirmation. The College may also, at its option, provide the information needed to complete the form directly to the private educational lender.

Private education loans include all alternative loans. Individual lenders are implementing their own procedures to comply with this new regulation, so you should contact your lender directly if you have specific questions about the process for submitting this form.

Ultimately, it is your responsibility to make sure the self-certification form is submitted to your lender. If you do not submit a completed and signed self-certification form to your lender, your loan will not be disbursed.

What loans are subject to this requirement?

Loan Type	Self-Certification Form Required?	Process for Submission
Federal Direct Student Loan

Private Education Loans should be considered only as a last resort after applying for Federal Loans
Federal loans have fixed interest rates, cancellation provisions, unemployment and economic deferment

---

Important: Pursuant to Section 155 of the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended, (HEA) and to satisfy the requirements of the Truth in Lending Act, a lender must obtain certification signed by the applicant before disbursing a private education loan. This school is required to provide this form or the required information to all students admitted or enrolled at the school throughout the Applicant Self-Certification you and your

